Days to Hold on

Daniel Murphy Catholic High School 241 South Detroit Street Los Angeles, California

"The noble man does noble things, and by noble things he stands." Isaiah 32.8 Prologue

This is the time to remember 'Cause it will not last forever, These are the days
To hold on to
'Cause we won't
Although we'll want to.
This is the time
But time is gonna change...
This is the Time, Billy Joel

When students look back at their high school days they may remember certain teachers and long hours in the classroom. Ot, they may think about the fun they had in individual activities or with friends. It all depends on the kind of experience they had in high school.

Everyone knows that school is supposed to teach you the facts and figures of Math, Science, English, History, Religion, and so on. But there is another type of knowledge ourside of "book knowledge" that high school gives us. It is the knowledge and wisdom that comes from maturity.

Over the course of our stay here at Murphy, every student undergoes the same kind of process. We get older, we make mistakes, we learn from our mistakes (hopefully!), and we generally have a good time down the long road to graduation. These are times that should not be forgotten. Not only because we cannot live them over again, but also because these are times when we grow physically, mentally, academically and spiritually. Whether we realize it or not these are truly

DAYS TO HOLD ON TO

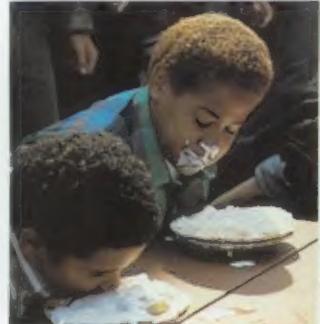

Enjoy them while you can 'cause they will not last forever.

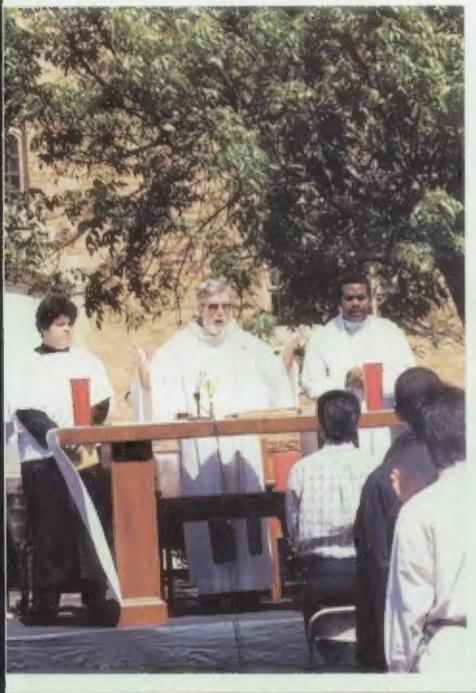

September - Actions

Everybody says that the start of the school year in September signifies a new beginning of fresh opportunities. But just ask any Daniel Murphy student if this is so. He will probably say that is represents the end of summer — freedom, the beach, vacations, part-time jobs, and, again, freedom. But deep down inside we all know it is a new beginning, especially for freshmen. Freshmen are seen walking around compus in a confused daze. The annual Noble Week festivities help to ease (?) them into their high school careers.

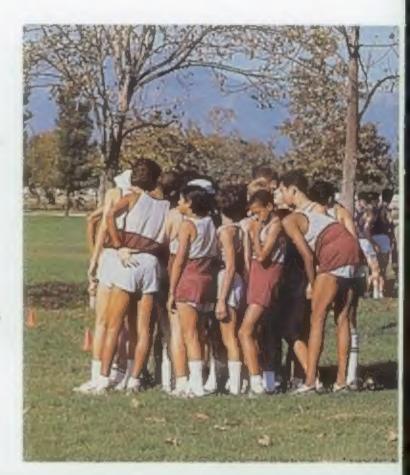

Another new addition to the Murphy landscape in 1986-87 is the catering truck. The usual Items that make up the All-American diet are readily available. But disquieting rumblings about the loss of certain vending machines travel from student to student.

The football and cross-country teams open their respective season. Both enjoy success.

Days of recollection, Eucharistic liturgies, and opportunities for personal reflection point the way to spiritual growth and development.

In the classroom, the early days of buying books, finding out what reachers are expecting, and settling into classes quickly give over to the reality of intense academic study. Reading assignments, quizzes, tests, and trips to the library keep students busy. But the countdown is already beginning: How long 'till Christmas Vacation?

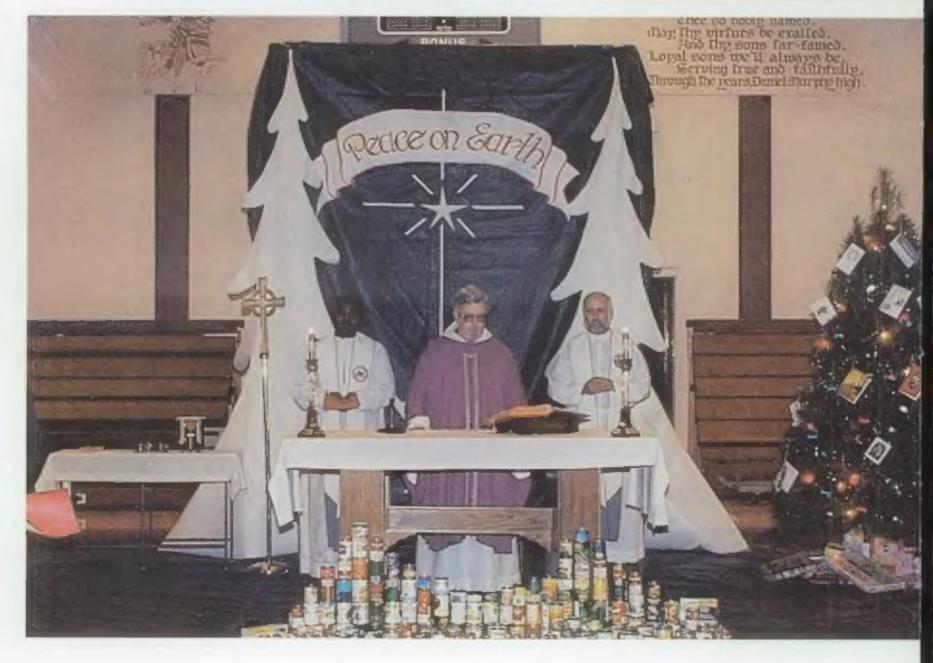

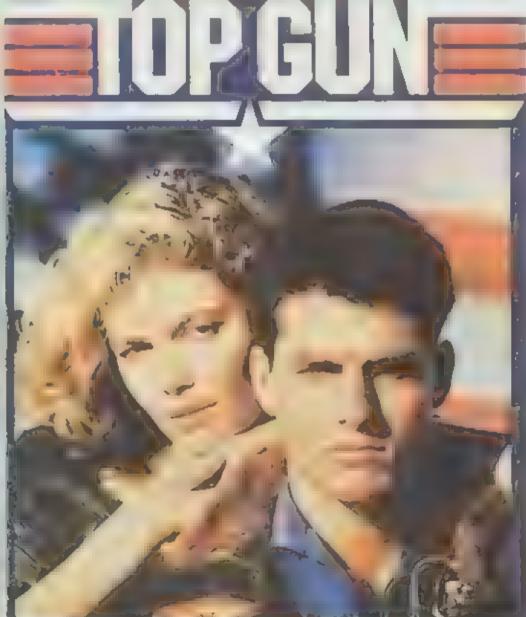

ovember ecember

As the days pass Into November and December, no one can help but think about the holidays and the vacations they bring. But, the academic load continues. Minds stretch to fit all the useful information from classes into what seems to be very limited brain storage facilities

The rainy season begins. The days grow shorrer, the nights longer. It is dark at five-fifteen. Summer is but a distant

Nevertheless, student activities are in high gear. The basketball and soccer teams begin practice with their seasons starting shortly. Applying to various colleges becomes a priority for many seniors. The freshman class sponsors a dance on the evening of December 12

A big day for the Junior class is Wednesday, December 17 On this day the Junior Ring Ceremony takes place in the chapel. The class of 1988 finally becomes "full citizens" of the Murphy tradition by receiving their school rings. The rings symbolize the wholeness of person that should result from the four year experience of high school

The highlight of December Is the yearbook-sponsored presentation of the movie, TOP GUN, on Thursday December 18 The frenetic energy of the movie foreshadows the coming of Christmas vacation twenty four hours later

Finally, 1986 comes to a close for the Murphy community on Friday, December 19, as the gym is transformed from a movie theater into a chapel. The annual Christmas liturgy involving the entire student body is celebrated. Christmas carols and good cheer send us all off to our families and friends in the true spirit of the season

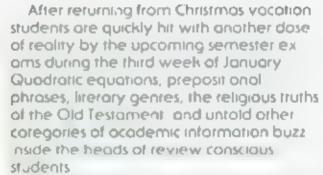

The baskerball and soccer seasons are in full swing. Both teams experience rough. seasons. The Murphy cheerleaders cheer mightily for the Noble couse

The seniors go off for a little soul sear ching on a three day retreat. It suprises them what some of them find out about themselves

The rainy season continues. Try keeping your cheeseburger dry while trying to pay for it in the rain. A course should be affered on how to splash across compus without getting your books (or yourself) wet during one of the winter showers. The rain does create same interesting patterns from a third floor perspective

Murch/- April

March and April are those two indistinguishable months in which nothing seems to happen — except for Lent and classes. These are two pretty big issues, but March and April are still hard to get through at times

The basketball and soccer seasons come to an end. The spring sports season — track, baseball, golf, tennis and volleyball — commence

A group of Murphy students make the trek down to the Anoheim Convention Center for the orchdioceson Youth Day A group of Murphy juniors make their own personal trek into their deepest selves on a three day retreat with Immaculate Heart High School in April

On March 19, the entire student body celebrates St. Joseph's Day and the coming of Spring in an outdoor Eucharistic liturgy Alumni Career Day falls on March 25, and helps Murphy students face that ageless question

What am I going to do when I grow

The season of Lent sets the tone for these two months. Money is collected for the missions while a penance service calls to mind Jesus' call to service for others. The week of April 12-19, takes us through the death and resurrection of Jesus — the Fother's incredible love story Easter vacation gives everyone a chance to take a deep breath for the final big push to the end of the school year.

The months of May and June bring heightened anticipation and excitement especially for the seniors. The class of 1987 begins to realize that their high school days are quickly coming to an

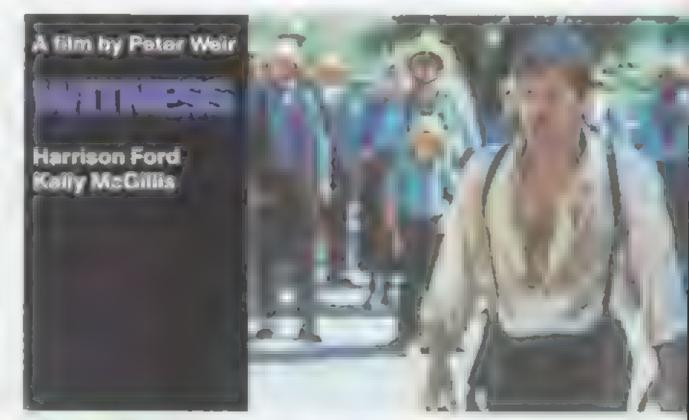

Activities such as the Science Fair Student Council elections, and the C I F play-off appearance of the varsity baseball ream makes these days fly by

On the evening of May 8, the prom goes without flow Beautiful gowns and handsome tuxedoes highlight an evening of dining and dancing at the Sheraton Grand in downtown Los Angeles

The Junior class-sponsored presentation of the film, WITNESS, starting Harrison Ford, Intrigues a Murphy audience

Finally, the end comes for the seniors Grad night at Disneyland, the last of the ost semester exams, and the graduation exercises themselves all bring a rush of emotions, happiness, exhilaration

For the Juniors, sophomores, and freshmen school commues for another week. Second semester exams close. out of the year. The days of the 1986-87 school year are at an end. Thoughts once again turn to summer vacation the beach, part-time jobs, and FREEDOM! Time has once again come full circle

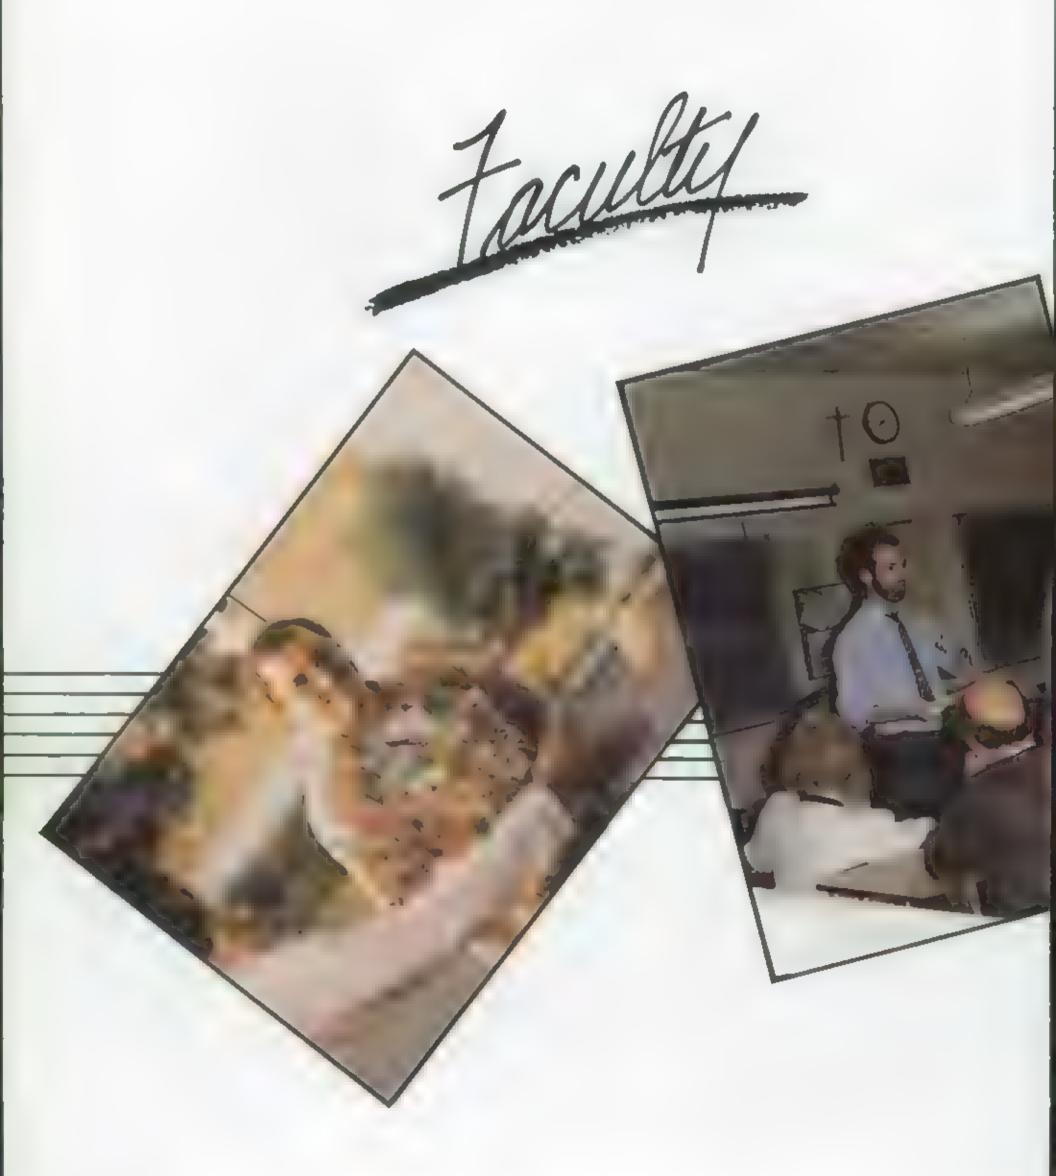

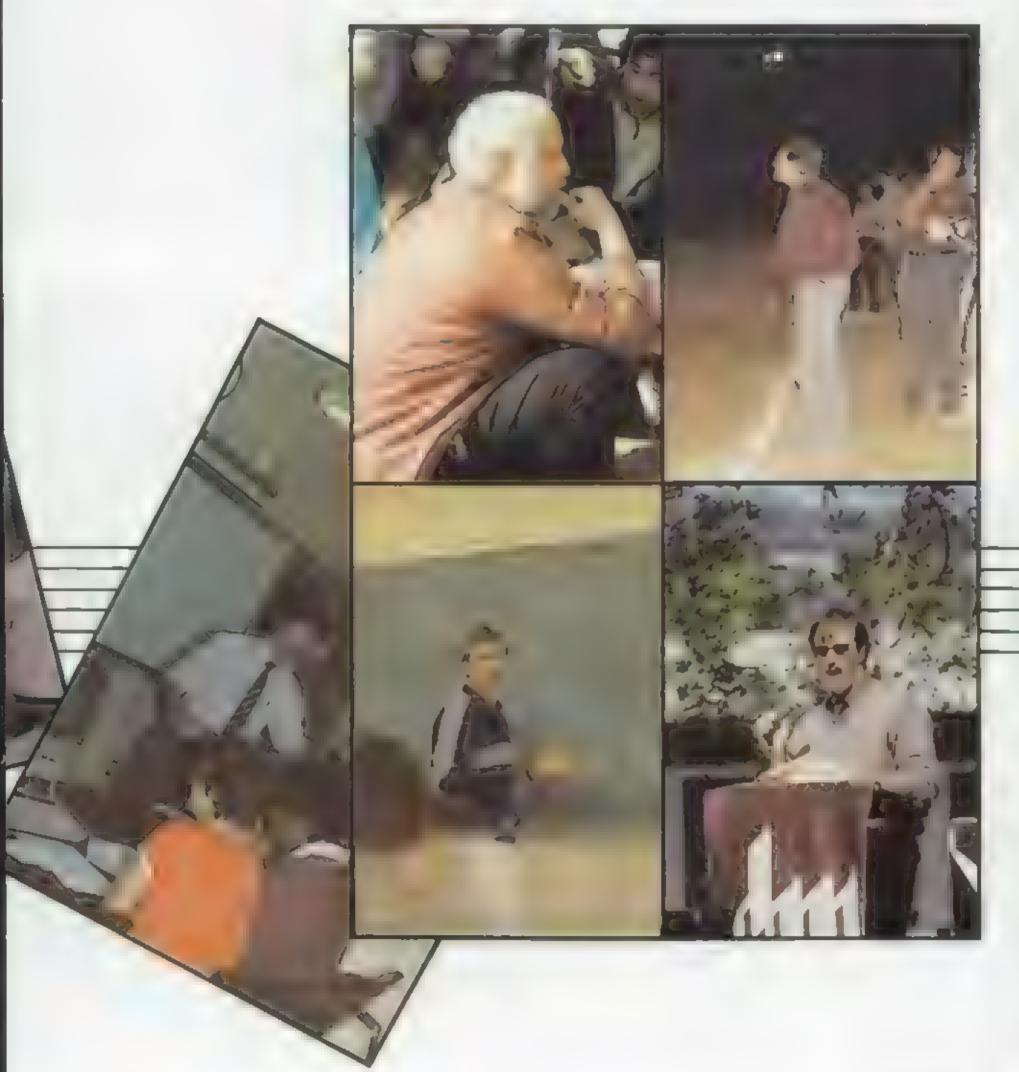

Reverend Richard A. Loomis

Principal

Dear Seniors.

Your four years as NOBLES have been eventful ones. You have witnessed great growth by the school. As with any growth, this has been accompanied with joys and sorrows, pleasures and pains.

You have learned to say good bye to teachers you had come to love and respect — Mr. Bob Gliddon. Sr. Martin Aloysius — to name only those called from us by the Lord. You have known the faithfulness of others who have given so generously of themselves for you have not worked in vain, for you exhibit the qualities which they gave you and you have made your own — love, respect, faithfulness and generosity.

Let these be your guide and staff as you face the years to come which like the last four years will be filled with joys and sorrows pleasures and pains. If you do, there will always be more joys and pleasures than sorrows and pains. You should know that one of the pleasures of my time here has been the joy of your presence and spirit.

God bless you and keep you always His in a very special way

Dear Seniors

The Class of 1987 is and always will be special. You have set a positive tone for the school in all your undertakings - academic athletic, spiritual, and social. Winning or losing, you never gave up trying. You continued to give a hundred percent. Overwhelmed with assignments, you worked all the harder. Christian service projects found you generously giving of precious free time beyond what was asked

College and university acceptances attest to your academic dedication. The gym walls and trophy cases are testimony of your athletic skills. Participation in retreats, masses, dances, and ser vice projects give evidence of involved Christian gentlemen

You have become a part of Murphy and Murphy a part of you. It is my hope and prayer that you continue to nourish those Christian values, which you exemplified during your years at Murphy

In Christ

Sister Patricia Supple, C.S.J.

Mr. Bradley R. Hallock Vice President — Academic Affairs

Class of 1987

I am, quite obviously, new here. You, on the other hand, are all old timers. When I first arrived at Daniel Murphy High School, I didn't know what to expect I mean, after 15 years of teaching in coed schools, I'm used to having young ladies - remember those? - in class, too. The adjustment was remarkable. For one thing the classrooms are generally quieter. Also, there isn't the constant bickering over lip gloss, fingernail polish, or eye shadow. At least, not nearly as often

Anyway, the gentlemen at this school really are Noble Men. It was an honor to get to know most of you and learn what a fine school Daniel Murphy is Good luck and Godspeed

Best regards,

Brad Hallock

Mr. Terry Mathews Vice Principal — Student Affairs

Seniors

By the time my thoughts are in print you will be on another road not Third and Detroit, and not traveling together in the safety of the caravan of the class of 1987 as you have been for the past four years. Some of you I will see again, some will disappear out the doors of the Ebell Theater and vanish from sight. This book will contain your memories — bitter and sweet of your brief passage known as high school and of the history of your four years at Daniel Murphy. This yearbook should be kept sacred not to be diminished, or discarded it is a record of this place, its people, and both bad and good and you are as important a part of its historical account as any one student, teacher, or administrator who has ever come before.

If lonely or feeling detached, open your books — look and remember — this was and will be a touch of home, of safety, and love on a journey filled with many tomorrows. Godspeed

Mr. George Vranau Athletic Director

The gym is quiet now and there is time to reflect on athletic accomplishments of the 1986-87 school year. This was a year of transition for Murphy sports. The Nobles switched from the Santa Fe League to the tougher Camino Real League. Also, a new A.D. took the helm of guiding the school's athletic fortunes.

It was a good year in many regards and a disappointing year in others. The positive aspects were accentuated by a second place finish in Cross-Country and a third place finish in Track, C.I.F. play-off appearances by the football and baseball teams highlighted the sports year.

However, it was a disappointing year as well. Murphy teams would have reached an even higher level of excellence if some of our student athletes had not become academically ineligible. Hopefully these students will get the message that, at Murphy, the classroom comes first and the playing field second.

Best regards to the graduating class of 1987

Mr. Michael Yuhasz College/Career Counselor

Dear Class of '87

This Senior class has kept me busier than any other I can remember Your insistence in completing applications to many of the finest colleges in our country at first filled me with reservations, but later impressed me with your confidence. Your ambition in accumulating some of the most extensive activities records I have ever seen filled me with hope for active and exciting lives to come. Your perseverance in getting the maximum amount of advice, guidance and hard-earned recommendations from me kept me concentrating on the Senior class every day I spent at Murphy You may not have been the most academically gifted class I have ever seen at Murphy but you were by far the most determined. And your determination paid off! College admissions officers from all over the country were duly persuaded to accept you to their campuses. Your talents and your diligence will now be distributed from California to New York and from Indiana to Texas. The fact that you wanted the best possible education you can get, that you needed a change, and that you expected a challenge, was all I, as your counselor, wished to know. I was, and always will be, extremely pleased with you. Good lucking

To the Students of Daniel Murphy

This has been a great year of learning with one another. Difficulties and solved problems indicate that our spirit is strong and capable of accomplishments. Let's continue our efforts and strive to live up to our name of the "Nobles!

Mr Johnson

With a Little Help From Our Friends!

When we hear the word friends, we usually consider all our peers. Our teachers too are friends. They help us like our "normal" friends and also in other ways as well. Although they are older than we are, they are also wiser than we are with more experience. Their help is usually the best help available to us.

A teacher has to explain a point clearly, but also in an enterlaining way to keep the attention of his or her audience, the students. Sometimes a point, no matter how many times explained, cannot be understood by a student. Help by a teacher, a friend, can be found almost every time. As a friend, teachers take their time and patience in describing a point. Their devotion and understanding of the student's point of view helps them to communicate on the student's evel.

When we feel joy or sadness, we usually share it with our friends. Teachers are also our friends and help us celebrate in times of joy and "pick us up" in times of sadness. Because all of us are human, we all understand the difficulties in life. Teachers can usually understand the situation the best because of their experiences in life. A teacher's opinion or advice is never far, if asked for. They also devote their time in helping students solve problems and frustrations.

As all friends do, teachers continue to watch us and see our progression in life. Their viewing of our lives usually is an "insurance" to our success in life

Teachers are . . . the best!

To be a Teacher

"Uh, oh! Another one of his vacation stories!" "Yea, yea you already told us what you did during summer vacation Mr ..." Although teachers may seem dictators or even non human, they are human Teachers may seem to have time enough only to teach but that thought is false Teachers have many other duties in life too!

Teachers, being human, have families of their own and relatives around the country, or even the world. An English teacher, Father Fitzpatrick, raises boys as well as teaching at least three classes. One pastime, of teachers, and others as well, is to visit their relatives "back East" or just twenty mites away.

"I wish Mr., knew how hard it is to do that much homework!" In some cases, there are teachers that do attend school. Some teachers, then, attend a school more than once a day! Homework is a big part of these teachers lives then, not only correcting homework, but doing homework.

Of course, teachers do not just correct papers at home, but they also play some sports or some kind of athletic activity. Some examples of the athletic abilities of teachers are seen in the activities done by them such as hiking tennis and basketbal.

Teachers are not robots programmed only to teach students, but also are well rounded human beings who live life to its fullest in both spiritual and other aspects Teachers are the best

Where is your homework?

TEACHER: "WHERE'S YOUR HOMEWORK?"

STUDENT: "UHH, MY DOG ATE IT."

TEACHER DON'T LET HIM EAT IT TONIGHT WHEN YOU HAVE TO OUTLINE THE NEXT SIX CHAPTERS."

An excuse is vital for survival at Murphy. Sometimes, the excuse may work. Other times, it may not it may be spontaneous like "While I was doing my lab, my homework fell down the drain." Or, it may be well thought out, not omitting any details. "This morning when I got off the bus, my homework fell out of my bookbag and the doors closed before I could pick it up."

A good excuse can make the difference between running on Saturday morning or sleeping in. Usually, excuses don't work. We always get the "It's your responsibility no matter what!" lecture. There are, at times, when excuses are real. Maybe, the dog started feeling hungry while you were doing your homework, or maybe your hand slipped causing your homework to go down the drain. You never know.

Excuses have found a place in the daily Murphy routine. The day wouldn't be right, without "What? There's a religion test today? I totally forgot about it, Mr.

O Bryan. Can I take it tomorrow?" Excuses come in many forms. There's the combination kiss up/excuse "Mr. Finn, I was admiring your old football pictures all night that I couldn't study for my typing test " then there is the honest desire for knowledge/excuse. "I got so involved in the Age of Social Reform that I couldn't do my history homework." None of them work. Students aren't the only ones at Murphy who are ac-

Students aren't the only ones at Murphy who are accused of making excuses. How many times have you heard teachers say "Sorry gentlemen, I forgot your tests at home" It's kind of ironic when a mature, well-educated adult can be excused for his or her faux pas while a young not so educated novice of society is reprimanded for the smallest things. But really, we can all understand the difference.

Murphy s an institution that prepares young men for the real world. In the real world, there is no room for excuses

ON BEING A TEACHER

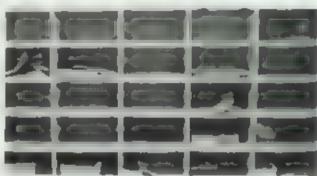

Only a small part of what a teacher does is to teach. Mostly he learns more and more about his subject and assists as the student learns more and more about it. If teaching consisted of merely pouring into the student what the teacher knows and thinks, it would be relatively easy to do, and it would not be worth the cost. What the teacher knows and thinks is of no special value until the student comes to know it, too, not merely from having been told by someone more learned than he but from having discovered it for himself.

ON EDUCATION

Whether and how far the capacity for imagination can be stimulated by education, I do not know I am quite sure however, that it can be dulled even killed, by overemphasis on the im portance of information and discipline. Yet without discipline, no skills can be acquired. And without a solid respect for facts, imagination degenerates into empty fantasy. The crucial how to encourage discipline without stifling imagination question is

INTERNATIONAL FAIR

Kicking Off the New Year

FAIRPLAY

Murphy's season opener arrived in the form of the International Fair With games, food, and fun, the event

Up to bat, one had several options with which to proceed, what to do was up to you

On first base, there were game booths sponsored by different classes teams, and clubs. Booths included a dunking booth by the Lettermen's Club, a ball-in-the-glass booth by the Seniors, and a knock-the-bottles-over booth by the basketball teams

On second base, there were international food booths emphasizing the fair's theme. The ambrosial nourishments had their origins in the Philippines, Mexico, United States, and China (to name a few)

On third base, there was fun, and there was a raffle. Everyone associated with the student body united to kick off the new scholastic year A raffle with great prizes had heightened everyone's excitement

So from Murphy's dugout to Murphy's outfield, the International Fair's "Fairplay" certainly started the new

BACK TO SCHOOL NIGHT

Back to School Night

Every teenager looks forward to go ing back to school, right? And how about those teachers? No? Well the parents were looking forward to this night because it provided a chance to learn what his or her child could expect and would go through during the course of the school year By the end of the night, the parents felt glad that they weren't still in school! After the brief orientation period, the parents went along to the different classes that his or her son was enrolled in The tedious task of listening to all of those teachers, climbing the many flights of stairs, and those annoying five minute hurry-up periods between the classes combined to create some grouchy parents! Thank God we only go back to school once a year!

NOBLE WEEK

Seniors and Freshmen

Hurry up!", "Carry my bagl", "Say the Alma Mater," and "Can you freak?" echoed through the halls of Daniel Murphy High School for one week. The senior class was given a chance to release their frustrations on the freshmen, but most of all to have the satisfaction of becoming masters Tall, fat, short, or skinny, it didn't mat ter, all freshmen were commanded to do the zaniest activities throughout the week Senior homage, which included bowing down and giving allegiance to the senior was evident as was a human train circling campus. On Monday, a pie eating contest, in which ravenous freshmen were given the chance to eat cherry and lemon pies to their heart s desire, although it seemed that the pies were going everywhere else ex cept their mouths. The exciting water balloon fight took place on Tuesday Although a definite winner was not proclaimed, both the seniors and freshmen enjoyed themselves. Other annual activities which later took place on Thursday were the tug-of-war and the freshman dress up. Costumes in cluded an underpriveledged woman and a baby with a rattle and a diaper

The senior-freshman picnic comes on the final day of Noble Week. It is a day to reflect on the past and look forward to the future. It is also a day to enjoy things in the present, such as, food, games, music, and each other s

Finally, the insignificant fears of the freshmen ended with the week. Both the freshmen and the seniors were united at the senior-freshman picnic at Pan Pacific Park. The two excited and also exhausted groups competed in the annual baseball game and enjoyed a lunch which wasn't from the lunch truck. After straining through a tough initiation, a new class was welcomed into the Daniel Murphy community however, this class will soon become the tormentors of the future freshman class at Daniel Murphy Good luck to the new class of 1990

HOMECOMING

was the theme of the 1986 Homecoming Dance held in the Mur phy gym on the evening of October 27

The annual Homecoming is one of many events schools consider important. But the plain reporting of this can be boring so I decided to bring you the reader, to another perspective of Homecoming '87

Almost every year, the first thing student council worries about is Homecoming. What is the theme? How will we choose the court? or a simple. What Now!!??

Well, with all these questions (and a million more), we tried to solve the big Homecoming puzzle. Many tiring Student Council meetings were held to organize Homecoming 87. A typical meeting would be as follows: discussion becomes argument, argument becomes chaos, and the meeting ends. Don't be misled, we did know what we were doing, but high school students have lots of energy for argument. Many of these "fun-filled" meetings took place to get this great task done.

There was confusion in two important parts, the dinner, and the choosing of the Court. Decisions just couldn't be made in time for catering of the dinner, and so it was dropped. By the times for the interview of the court, nobody seemed to know what day what time, or who should do the interviewing. Nonetheless, this barrier was overcome.

Everything was near perfect for Homecoming, despite the turmoil. The football games against Mary Star was an upbeat one, though we didn't win but fied. All in all, this Homecoming can be described as festive. One that was truly unique.

I think Washington Irving said it best when he said uittle minds are tamed and subdued by mistgrtune, but great minds rise above it.

Does life have to be so trustrating? If so, Homecoming was not worth it. Throughout the evrit, I feit as though I had committed a crime. But maybe, just maybe it might have been my imagination running wild. Regardless, I might we had this fine event.

CROSS COUNTRY -

Coach Sheehan's "Family" Runs Its Way

SO CLOSE AND YET SO FAR

to Within One Point of League Championship

The sun shone brightly on the teenager who was relaxing in his backyard pool while another adolescent had continued watching his daily soap operas until his eyes were bloodshot red Such was the role of events of a typical summer vaction for several high school students, but an awaited increment would enhance the environment in which they resided. Dedicated young men would unite to form a most celebrated and memorable cross country team for the season of 1986 at Daniel Murphy High School, even if it meant less "summer fun" and more work with his cross country family. In conjunction with Coach Michael Sheehan, in his first year of

In conjunction with Coach Michael Sheehan, in his first year of coaching, this year's cross country team produced what has been called "an unvelievable season." The attitude with which the cross country team ran was extremely positive. These weren't just a bunch of guys running because they had to; au contraire, this was a family of athletes joined together to do the best that they possibly could. Their coach wasn't an untouchable authority; he was a talented and considered friend who led them to victory

During races, if a man was lagging behind, his teammate would slow down and encourage him to keep the stamina burning brightly. These teammates were like brothers, with a big brother, who's been where they are, helping them. There was no real division between varsity and junior varsity; the only separation between the two came at racetime. It was just people helping people.

This attitude and atmosphere carried the 1986 cross country team to an undisputed first place in the League Championship Race at Legg Lake in Montebello and a second place in the league, losing only to St. Bernard early in the season. The Nobles then advanced to the first round of C. I. F. competition where the thought of winning wasn't as important as the feeling of knowing that brotherhood, true teamwork, and dedication had gotten them to this plateau of prestige

POWER MEETS POWER

Once again it was East meets West as Reagan and Gor bachev fried to come to terms in a summit meeting in Iceland. As usual, the main on eclive of this impromptu summit was to find some middle ground on the issue of arms control. Unfor tunately, no sout on came about as the result of this particular negotiation. At least the two super powers were able to discuss things rationally as they met one on one. With future summits in the makings, and answer to the delicate issue may soon be found.

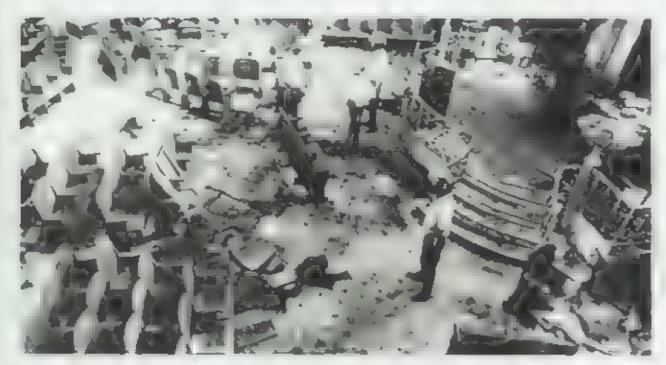

OUT WITH A BANG!

New York City was jumping last July It was the sight of a Fourth of July celebra. tion like no other. All of America joined in celebrating the Statue of Libert, 4 10uth birthday, and what a show it was Americans from coast to coast were enthralled by a kaleidoscope of singing and dancing, celebrities, parties, and fireworks ... lots and lots of fireworks Twenty-four hour television coverage was provided by the likes of ABC AND MTV throughout the holiday weekend which began on Friday the fourth with a beautiful firwork clad cavalcade inducting the newly restored Ms. Liberty and which culminated in another song and dance fireworks extravaganza produced by David Wolper who was responsible for producing the closing deremonies for the 84 summer Olympiad in Lus Angeles, Oh. by the way, who could forget the dance number involving 800 Elv s impersonators!

WORLD SERIES '86

The 1986 World Series was a classic baseball confrontation in every sense of the word. The New York Mets, down by two games early on to the Boston Red. Sox., came back in dramatic fashion and forced the series to a final and all-important seventh game. With the dazzling play of Series' MVP Ray Knight, the Mets were able to bring home, the championship in front of thousands of elated fans in Shea Stadium.

THE TERROR CONTINUES

Sadly enough on September 6, two Arab terrorists raided Istanbul's central synagogue and killed more thant 20 worshippers with submachine-gun fire. When police and officials arrived on the scene the terrorists had intentionally detonated some hand grenades killing themselves in the process. This was yet another "gentle" reminder of the political turmoil which still plaques the Middle East to this very day and which continues to take the innocent lives of many along the way

HOLLYWOOD'S TOP GUN

Simply put, what a year Torn Cruise had in 1986! Altogether he had three films in release in 1986. the winter box office flop "Legend," the summer's as well as the year's box office champ "Top Gun," and in autumn the critically as well as commercially successful "The Color of Money." As if this weren't a good enough year already, he was given a star on Hollywood's famed "walk-a-fame" in October which coincided with the release of 'Money.' Ironically enough, many Hollywood purists were quick to point out that Cruise's co-star in 'Money' — the venerable Paul Newman — had never received a star throughout his 30 year career. Some went on to say that this was just another gimmick to promote 'Money'

RED OVER 'BLUE VELVET'

September was a landmark month for film making in 1986 Director David Lynch's contoversial, black-humored suspense thriller "Blue Velvet" opened in limited release across the country. Lynch's brooding, nightmare vision of small-town Americana. caused a sensation with audiences and critics alike you'd either love it or hate it was the obvious consensus. Some people were apalled by its sexual violence while others were captivated by Lynch's allegorical and painstaking story-telling (which garnered him an Academy Award nomination in the process). Whatever your perceptions of "Blue Velvet" may be, you have to admit that it at least got people taiking about the movies again.

After many days of negotiation, an agreement was finally reached. In exchange for the jour nalist's freedom, alleged Soviet spy Gennady Zakharov was released in New York. MURPHY DANCES

The Murphy dance hall, which is also a cinema complex dining hall, and athletic court, played host once a month to the sounds of Disco, Funk, and New Wave and some of the most beautiful ladies in the world. Although some dances were unsuccessful, the majority of them generated enough funds for the particular group that sponsored it. Long lines, loud music, freshmen lined up against the walts are a common quality of every Murphy dance. The last dance of the year, the sophomore dance, was, financially, the success of the year.

CAMPUS MINISTRY

Leading the Murphy community in prayer, personal growth and spiritual discernment

Have you ever stopped and wondered who plans the religious events at Murphy? If you don't already know, it's Campus Ministry The Campus Ministry team, headed by Mr Stretch and Sr. Catherine Therese worked hard for the planning of masses, retreats. Christian Service, and other religious events Every detail, from the pick ing of the readings, to the choice of the songs was taken care of by Campus Ministry Not many of us think about it, but Campus Ministry is responsible for the Christian-Catholic atmosphere around the Campus Ministry is not just a bunch of guys working hard. They re also party people. The Campus Ministry team had many activities with the Campus Ministry groups of other schools It was also Campus Ministry who threw one of the more suc-cessful dances of the school year. So in other words, the members of Campus Ministry aren't a bunch of "nerds" doing

religious things for the school

The goal of Campus Ministry is not to serve the typical Christian stereotype Rather, its goal is to serve young, Christian men — the men at Murphy

The ring ceremony symbolizes the wholeness of person that should result from the four year experience of Daniel Murphy Catholic High School

It's a hot, winter day, December 17, 1986. You're a Junior and are sitting in your fifth period class. You anxiously await the bell allowing you to go to your sixth period. This is finally the day. The day you have been waiting for for three years the Class Ring Ceremony

The ceremony was to take place during sixth period. Throughout the whole day, all that was heard from Juniors was "I can't wait until sixth period!" Yes, the little Freshmen of 1984 are now the matured Juniors of 1987. They had to live with admiring upperclassmen's rings for three years. Now it was their turn

The ceremony began with a rather lengthy speech by Mr Yuhasz. It only seemed long because of the anxiousness of the students. The next speaker was Father Loomis, our venerable principal

Another year has come and gone, and now it is all over. Take it as you like it, it is past. Homecoming, Noble Week, and the football play offs highlighted the fall season. During the spring there were the junior and senior retreats, the days of recollection, the spring musical at Immaculate Heart, the movies, "Top Gun" and Witness the basebal play oils and most importantly the big gest event of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom. All in all, it was an eventful year

Maybe the dances weren t always the greatest, and maybe the administration did get a little carried away with the dress code, but after everything is considered. I had a pretty good time. It has been an honor to serve as your president. I hope you enjoyed the past year

THE UNKIND WORD

Ridicule and derision within the student body may seem, like harmless fun and foolery, but it is really very serious, especially when the target of insults is a fellow student. If a student has a negative attitude about the mockery, feelings become hurt and hostility grows, much to everyone's regret. Even the most negligible of insults, when told to the wrong person, can create an angry sentiment that must be dealt with directly. To run from this mat fer would be a cop-out. Apologizing for your put-down is the kindest you can get. Narrow-minded people, however, will with much resolution agree that receiving abuse is a part of life just as receiving praise is. Well, this is nonsense and claptrap. Use your noggin! Obviously, no one wants to be the object of jeering remarks. Yet, alienating words are constantly being volleyed back and forth. Why? I guess because it's because of our uptight and highly defensive world denigrated by human nature. In any case, no one is at fault

THE RATINGS SYSTEM

The MPAA ratings system as we know it foday consists of the G, PG, PG-13, R, and X ratings. A recent controversy has arisen over the large gap between the R and X ratings When the MPAA ratings system was invented in 1968, the X ratings orginally meant "For Adults Only." It was not associated with anything dity or pornographic, as we know it today. "Midnight Cowboy," the Oscar-winning Best Picture for 1969, was rated X and was yet successful. "Last Tango in Paris," critically acclaimed as one of the best films of all-time, was rated X in 1972. However, as the seventies progressed, explicit, pornographic movies became the only films associated with the X rating Major film companies and theaters backed away from X rated movies

Nowadays, the fine line between R and X ratings has become a heated controversy with the emergence of movies such as "Angel Heart," and "Crimes of Passion." These films, which critics and movie-goers alike do not find pornographic, had to be edited to receive R ratings. In many of these cases, the movies were hurt by the cuts because critics found the "edited-out" scenes to be essential to the integrity of the movies. Also, there seems to be a double standard in the MPAA ratings system. The MPAA is easy on films with low aspirations, but it is hard on films that are made with passion and intelligence. Traditional teenage exploitation films always seem to get an R rating although they may be more violent or sexual in nature. Directors should be allowed to make their movies. in their original integrity intact without fear of receiving the kiss-of-death X rating Maybe it is time for a purposed A rating — "For Adults Only" — which fills the gap between the R and X rating. This way, adult movie-goers could go to see films in the way film makers originally intended them to

A STUDENT COMMENT: AMERICA UNDERCOVER

Controversyl Corruption! From a local high schooler getting busted for wearing a supposedly "improper" wind breaker with a logo connotative of "gangland activity (turns out it was an L.A. Raiders windbreaker) to Col Oliver North pleading the fifth some 18 times during the House Secretarians on the hear Coatra affairs. Senate hearings on the tran-Contra affairs controversy Big or small, we can I live with it, we can I live without it (or can we?) But why does America enjoy covering it up? It's like trying to ignore a wart at the end of one's nose. It seems that since the radical 60 s and early 70's, a period of countiess politically laced college newspapers and smilless public profests, America has grown soft in the middle in coming to gips with corruption and controversy A Reagan's 'era of good feelings'" in which America seems to have naively huddled itself beneath a blanket while placing all of its trust and security into the hands of a cuddly teddy bear (i.e. R.R., any relation to J.R.?)

For the most part most of us are too young to remember 5gl. Pepper "Vietnam "t.v. dinners," Watergate etc. All were controversial high ights of their time. Now our only outlets to these incidents (and emotions) are through history books encyclopedias etc. But just recently some high school textbooks have been criticized by authorities for avoiding such controversy. A prime example would be a 1986 edition of a Civics textbook used in high schools around the country, which fails to mention the slightest thing about Watergale is the publisher to biame or is it America's supposedly noble, democracy for all image, or rather pride to blame for such negligence?

Now a question is being raised as to whether or not morality (what is right, and what is wrong) should be taught in (elementary) classrooms across this great riation of ours Of course there is nothing negative about such good inten-tions, and I don't mean to sound cynical, but really, folks do you honestly think given how much faster today a youngsters seem to grow aware of their society, that such an endeavor would make a difference two years after its in liation?

For any thing, how can today's youngsters (and teens) book up to today's society? Just this past year along there's been snough corruption to surface in the papers "to fill up been enough corruption to surface in the papers "to fill up an Arriway convention" as the saying goes I'm talking about the tran-scam crisis, the Jim Bakker scandle the Gary Hart scandle and just recently. Vice President George Bush's display of ignorance when after speaking about and supporting Reagan's new policy aims towards fighting AIDS discontented hecklers as "some gay group Hopefully America can come to grips with the fact that we're just as much the carriving big headed , holes we criticize with Russian and Iranians of being I could be label ed as a "comme" for such un-patriotic remarks but I'm sure that the ones swearing against me are the same ones who go to bed with a "teddy bear" every night. Perhaps ontroversies such as the ones previously mentioned are blessings in disguise. America is now learning it's seeing something that was always suppose to be hidden. The media has even offered to help. What with films such as Platoon' and 'Blue Velvet' exposing American corruption and rock in roll acts such as U2 and Paul Simon simultaneous singing and criticizing international injustices such as Apartheid library are as the less case in as all.

FINAL EXAM PREPARATION

AN END OF THE SEMESTER RITUAL, FINAL EXAMS BRING OUT THE BEST (AND THE WORST) IN MURPHY STUDENTS

Anxiety, furious reviewing, lack of sleep, group study session, worry, stress, trips to the library, and mental fatigue (fried brains) are all a part of final exam week

If you ask the average Daniel Murphy student what he dislikes most about high school life, he will likely say one of two things 1) Walking across campus in the rain, or 2) semester final exams. Many times final exams bring out the best ef forts of students (at least in energy burn ed up) But exams are also a time of in tense pressure, anxiety, worry, and so on and so on, and so on. So much depends on how well you do on these one and a half hour torture sessions

There are many different ways to ap proach exams Probably the most effect tive way is to study consistently through the whole semester if that doesn't hap pen the next best thing is reviewing with friends. Finally if all else fails the all night cram session sometimes works, but you do that at the expense of your brain cells All in all, final exams are not pleasant

BASKETBALL

A LONG, HARD BASKETBALL SEASON

A loss of four starters, a lack of size, and a much tougher league combine to make basketball season long, difficult and disappointing

With all the success Murphy basketball has enjoyed the past several seasons including last year's C.I.F. championship, it was difficult to imagine, much less accept, a losing season. But time has a way of evening things out. Coach Terry Mathews in-herited a team that lost four starters The team had no real size. Finally, Murphy transfered into the much tougher Camino Real League. These factors combined to produced a 4-19 varsity basketball season

However, the ideal of sports is to compete and compete as well as you are able. If you do that you have nothing to be ashamed of, nothing to regret. This is the backbone of coach Mathews' approached to coaching. He says that winning and losing are not the most important things to him. What is the most important is how hard his players work and push themselves to perform up to their capabilities. This year's basketball team hustled, worked hard on the court and never gave up. The best example of this was the first St. Anthony game. St. Anthony was heavily favored to wipe up on Mur-phy. But the Nobles hung tough and upset St. Anthony 90-89. Everybody remembers the night Murphy upset St Anthony It gave us respectability It was the highlight of the season. In the coach's eyes the guys on this team were winners

Three days in February bring a group of Murphy seniors closer together

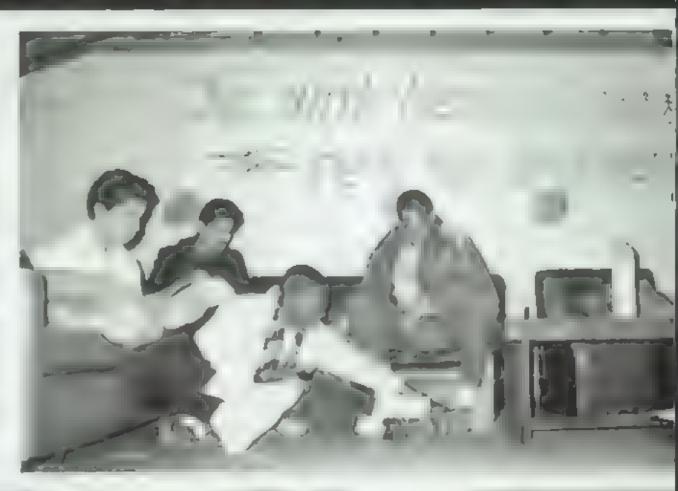

It was a hot January afternoon when twenty-five Murphy seniors and two faculty members traveled to a place which would promise a journey farther than any trip the students had ever taken

If was the sight for the senior retreat Paul Stretch and P J Pascale were the guides for the event which lasted from February 11th to the 13th The retreat was held at St. Anthony's Phory in Valvermo a peaceful desert mountain area where the temperature always seemed to be about fifty degroes he seniors participated in activities such as small group discussions, forum discussions hikes sports a Euchanstic sturgy and a lot of sharing. We met a new friend. Father Phil

When the seniors arrived at the refreat some were. friends some were acquaintances, some were strangers. Through what they experienced some became friends some even brothers and others remained acquaintances

CAREER DAY

Stepping Into the Future

Why are we at Murphy? The most obvious reason is to have a bright future. College is the next step after high school. Your choice of career is the most important.

That's where Career Day comes in The typical high school student is at the point in his education where he has to choose a path. Career Day is organized by the administration to answer any questions lingering in the students' mind

The careers represented ranged from chemistry to medicine and law to public service. The speakers, all Murphy alumni, addressed students in no other way a person can, with a Murphy perspective and spirit.

perspective and spirit
The day began at 8 30 A M. with an opening address by Mr. Vranau. After wards, the students attended the seminars of their first and second choices of careers

The session ended with a "supermarket" of careers in the gym

All in all, the day was a success and achieved its goal to open up the possibilities to the Murphy student

D.M.H.S. — I.H.H.S.' "Rad Retreaters" closing in on things of the heart.

A group of juniors of Daniel Murphy and Immaculate Heart High Schools arrived at the Montebello Retreat Center at 5 30 P M on Friday, with two thoughts on their minds, "When can we play basketbali?" and "With which one of the Im maculate Heart girls could I score?" By midnight they had poured out their internal strife, emotions, and tears to their old and new friends. That same night, Mr Stretch asked, "Basketball, anyone?" All the guys stared at him realizing how much the retreat meant to them, and this was just the first day. The next two days' activities includ ed the trust walk, basketball, football, volleyball, water balloon toss, pillow fight, bad food, and countless emotionally filled group gatherings. By noon on Sunday, it was unanimous that this was the ultimate experience of the Junior year

BENEDICT ABARRO

The junior retreat was and is the best experience that a junior will ever have it made me and the rest of the 'rad retreaters' feet good all over. We learned to be open to one another and to appreciate what true friendship was/is all about.

CHRIS HUDSON

Since going on the junior retreat I have learned just to be me I learned how to express my true feelings and how to fel my true colors, show I now also know how valuable my thends are to me and how without them I would not be where a mit aday.

KEITH THOMPSON

In my opinion, the retreat was the best thing that a happened to me because it allowed me to find out who I am and what want to do. The retreat also allowed me to meet new and interesting people and to see the "real people" inside my triends.

HOWARD MAGEE

Ooh, what a feeling! I can't believe I really changed but hey, I did! I learned so much and I love myself more I thought no one was there for me but I was wrong. Love was all around me and I felt good inside. Thank y all

LUIS VARA

This retreat was a real experience. In those 36 hours I ched, laughed, learned, estened, and shared. I also met a new side of myself that I had never seen. If was a very worthwhile and enlightening experience.

The 1987 tennis learn although inexperienced, played with a lot of enthusiasm and energy this season. The team had on ly three returning players from last season. A 3-6 record. would usually be considered a down season, but with such a young feam this was an accomplishment

Outstanding performances were turned in by Chris Watanabe, Danny Duran, and Jonathan Laforga, who were also named to the All-League team. Outstanding also were the doubles teams of Gabriel Ahn — Danny Kim and Brock Mosely - Scott Langley

This nucleus of young talent holds a lot of promise for the near future. A possible tennis championship in 1988?

At the beginning of the school year it looked as though there would be no Daniel Murphy Golf team this year. But through the persistent efforts of a number of golf athletes, most notably Mark Becarria, Tom Miller, and Mike Woods, the team came together. Mr. Mathews agreed to coach the team and Murphy Golf survived for another season. Outstanding performances were put in by Mark Beccaria, Tom Miller, and Lawrence in Mark Beccaria was named to the first team of the All Angelus League. With a number of returning players, the future holds promise for the Murphy Golf Team.

Academy Awards

As with the Grammys, this year's Academy Awards were a surprising breath of tresh air considering how conservative the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and fresh air considering how conservative the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has been in its past. The evening's big winners were. Platoon (4 Oscars), "Room with a View," "Hannah and her Sisters," and "Aliens" with 3 Oscars apiece. Of even great notonety was the fact that four of the five "best picture" nominees ("Platoon," "Room," "Hannah," and "The Mission") were in dependently made productions boasting the "arrival," so to speak of independent film-making. As far as the major awards went, "Platoon" walked away with "best picture", Mariee Mattin, in a touching, heart-wrenching acceptance speech, received the "best actress" distinction for her performance in "Children of a Lesser God" as did Paul Newman for his performance in "The Color of Money." However, to many the highlight of the evening came in Steven Spielberg's acceptance speech. many the highlight of the evening came in Steven Spielberg's acceptance speech for receiving the honorary living Thalberg Award in which special-effects wiz Spielberg proclaimed that the modern cinema should "renew its love for the written

MUSIC NOTES

Who were we listening to in 1986-87? Now Murphy is notonously noted for strictly being influenced by one or two types of music (i.e. discoland funk). Wait a minute! That accounts for maybe 50% of the school. What about the rest of us?! Some of us have had if with such a stereotypical point of view and have decided to do something about it. The following represents an objective yet miscellaneous compilation of those artists who were the most influential and/or inspiring to us in the 1986-1987 music scene. (N.B. Dance music was not the issue, but instead the entire body of work incorporated in the form of an LP.) The voting was heated but democratic.

SCIENCE FAIR

On the evening of April 27, and during the following school day, the annual Science Fair was held in the Murphy gym. Students from the various science classes put their brains to work to come up with something that would be creative, intellectually stimulating, and interesting to the public. Mr. Brad Hallock and Mr. Tom Chun acted as judges. They spent a great deal of time viewing the projects and asking questions to see if the students knew what they were talking about. The winners, listed on the next page, were announced at the Academic Awards Banquet on Sunday, May 24.

The College Application Process

One of the things that almost all Seniors had to deal with was college applications. It was really a horror to go through all those steps in order to further their studies!

After taking S.A.T. and Achievement Tests, the Seniors began to spend a great deat of time to investigate colleges that might be appropriate for them. Inside the office of the college counselor, Mr. Huhasz, there were always a lot of Seniors flipping through various college reference books to search for important information. Most of them attended many of college presentations to understand more about colleges. Afterwards, they had to send letters to those colleges that they wanted to ask for applications. You can imagine how time-consuming this step could be for those who were planning to apply for twenty or more colleges. Then they had to recall all the extracumous and Tubes that they had participated in when acid them had to fill out the activity sheets for Mr. Yuhasz. The time to work on the applications came very soon since the deadline for most of the college applications was on January 1. The real "battle" officially began as they proceeded to the step of In storig applications. The essay questions in the applications. were often hard, and the seniors lost a lot of brain energy to think of some good ideas for the essays. They had to truly pay attention on grammar, vocabularies, styles, consistency, and fluency. "Will the admissions committee like my essay?" asked almost every single Senior Mrs. Reich, the Senior English teacher, was busy enough to help the Seniors write their essays Mr. Yuhasz was probably the busiest person during the "College Applications Battle." He had to interview all of the Seniors in order to write them good recommendations for their applications. Imagine a person writing 100 good recommendations! For each application, Seniors must find at least one more favorite teacher besides Mr. Yuhasz to write an exwere many Seniors running around the campus to ask their teachers, "Will you be able to write me a recommendation?" During the Christmas vacation was the climax of the "battle" Some Seniors could not even go to sleep because they could not obtain enough time to complete the applications before the deadline, especially those who were applying for twenty or more colleges. They would suddenly wake up at five in the morning and rush to finish all the paper work. They kept think ing, writing, and typing, and they fell absolutely nervous and mentally tortured. Finally, they finished and got to get rid of the papers which had caused their nightmares as they sent them out to the holleges. However, it wasn't all done It was also very troublesome for the Seniors to make sure that the teachers had sent out the recommendations. The busy teachers were usually forgetful. They could have told the Seniors that they had sent the recommendations out when they really had not

There cannot be any Seniors who have forgotten about their college applications, a heavy burden on them. Senior year is not really the best year even though Seniors acquire many big brother" privileges. In reality, they are in a stage of changing from the biggest in an environment to the smallest in another. During such a stage, they do have senous obliga-tions and jobs to fulfill. Johnny Tseno.

Prom Committee

It has been the tradition at Murphy for many years that the junior class put on the junior-senior prom. This year was no exception. On May 8 1987, the Junior Senior Prom. was held at the Sheraton Grande Hotel in downtown Los Angeles It was a gala evening of dinner and dancing. The theme of the evening was living in a Dream. The event was for the seniors at na farewell from the juniors. For the juniors it was a prelime to next year signorm.

The junior class got off to a slow start in organizing the prom. With under two months remaining before May 8, a prom committee was formed. Under Mr. Johnson and the leadership of Erik Ward and Allan Rabina, the prom committee got the ball rolling. The committee met every week until all the preparations were worked out and completed.

It was an experience than none of the committee members will forget. It was a lot of work buildet wirries printing workes and a few last minute details almost overlooked. We gladly pass this all on to next year's junior class.

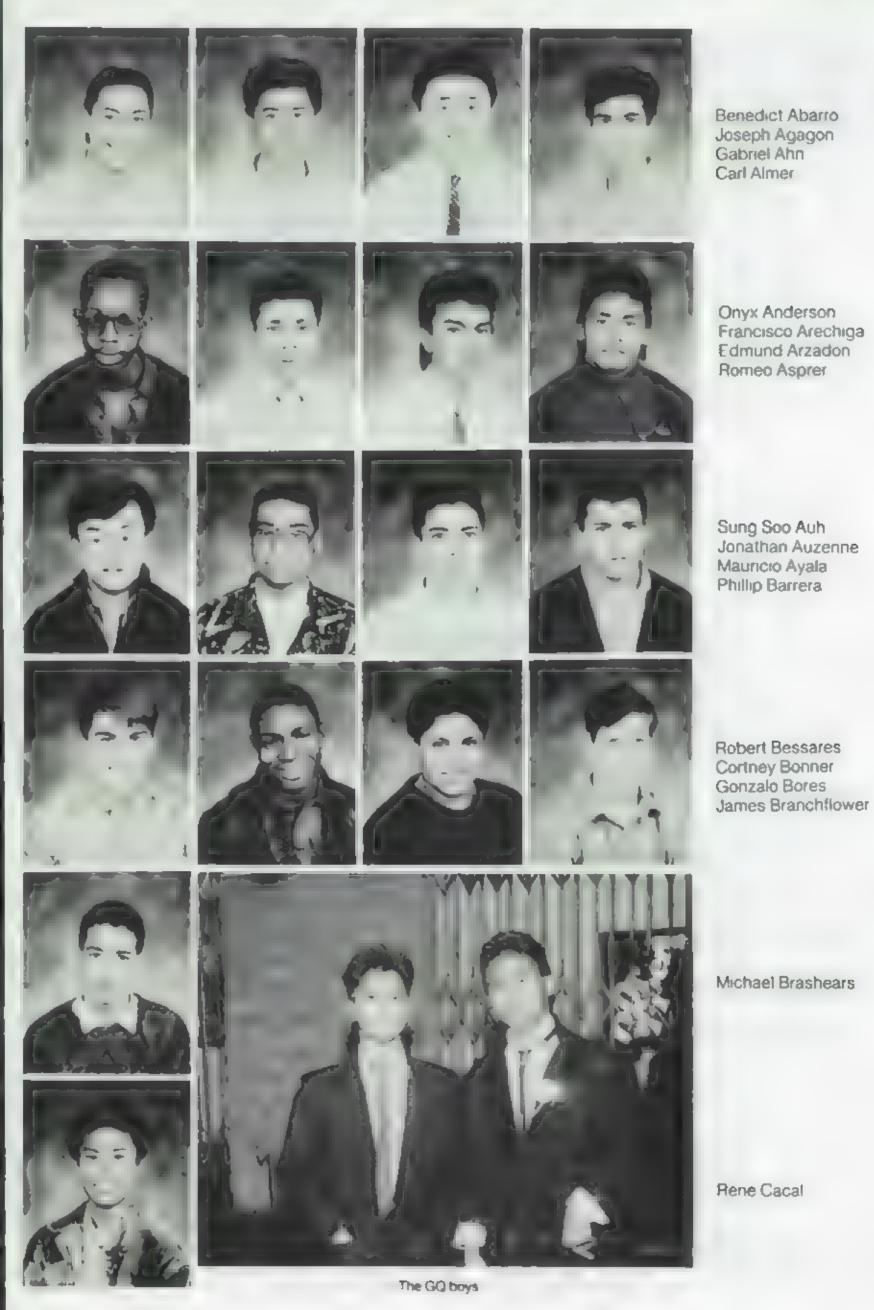

The evening would not have been a success without the help of some very special faculty members. Thanks are extended to Mr. O Bryan Mr. Jackson, Mr. Johnson, and Father Loomis and the rest of the administration.

JUNIOR YEAR RESPECTABILITY AT LAST!

What do passing a driver's test, getting a class ring, and giving up on life have in common? Answer: They all happen in the Junior year. The Junior year of high school is looked upon as the climax of one's high school career. This is the last year to redeem one's freshman and sophomore grades

Aside from the academics are the people of the Junior class. Although the juniors of '86-87 are looked upon as rowdy slobs, they are much more than what their image shows. Within the Junior class, one may find the theater buffs, athletes, and scholars

Juniors who made significant contributions to the class are Ben Abbaro, Chris Watanabe, Joey Connors, and Saul Reyes, just to name a few

In the past, the Class of '88 has carried out several projects for the benefit of the campus. The biggest challenge of the Junior class was this year's prom. With many obstacles in front of them, the juniors put on one of the most spectacular proms in years

At this point in high school, the arrogance level is high. Now that the Class of '88 are upperclassmen, there is a tendency to use the phrases "stupid freshman" and "retard of a sophomore" more often. The Junior year is the first show of respect from the underclassmen. The Junior ring ceremony, the prom, and "college mail" fills the air with arrogance and conceit. Short-lived of course!

SOPHOMORE YEAR WHO ARE THISE OUYS, ANYWAY?

Who are the sophomores? That is a question asked mainly by those who've never tried to know them; but still it is a difficult question to answer. Considering the diversity of our school, you'd think it would be hard to lose a whole class

Well, the sophomore class isn't lost. They are very much alive and easily the most colorful class in our school. They are the movers and the shakers Just ask their moderator. Mr Wayne Jackson. This year they went on their annual field trips to an art museum and an amusement park. They also put on one of our more successful dances. The sophomores can be seen participating in our sports, clubs, in Campus

Ministry, and in Christian Service. But after all this, some people may still ask, "Who are the sophomores?" Some of them don't even know, but they know who they aren't! With big grins on their faces, the majority of them, when asked, replied, "We sure aren't freshmen!"

My year as Freshman Class President can only be described as a learning experience I have learned so much in nine months. I learned that the class of '90" needs constant attention. They need a leader who they know cares. I believe I was that person. I also learned that we are a unique class. We are unique in the sense that "long odds" do not keep us down.

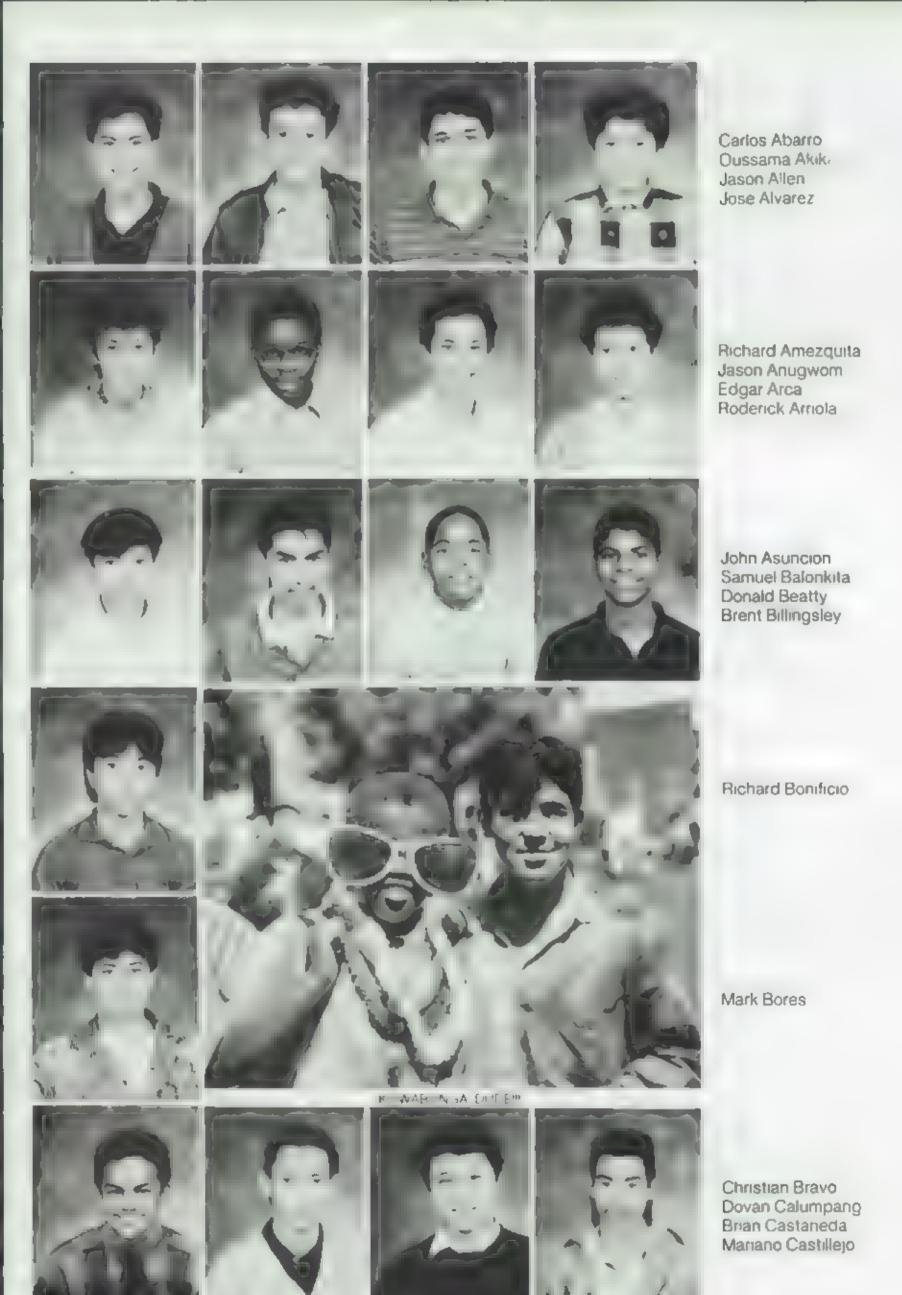

if there is one idea that I would like to leave with my class this year it is the idea that I do care Because I care it hurts to see members of our class fight each other. We are a class. My goal is to develop a strong sense of unity in our class.

If there is one thing I would have our class remember it would be this. A house divided against itself will never stand

Thank you for a truly wonderful year, and the promise of the three years to come

FRESHMEN REBUTTAL

We, as Freshmen, are sick of being scorned and put down by the upper classmen. The first week of school we are put on a hit list by the Seniors for Noble Week, I don't know why they call it Noble Week. It should be called Noble Year, the reason being all year round, we are put down and defamed by the upper classmen just because we are in our first year of high school. They think freshmen have the intelligence of a Lima Bean, but it is apparent we don't. The evidence lies in these examples: Freshmen obviously know the best brand of deodorant to use, which is apparent by walking by any of the upperclassmen at the end of the school day, also, if Senior Court was Freshmen Court we all know that half of the grass would not be DEAD. Not all upperclassmen are bad, some of them have the potential to be Homo Sapiens instead of Neanderthals

Why they act this way, I don't

Yearbook Acknowledgements, 194 Yearbook Staff, 195 The Daniel Murphy High School Yearbook, Days to Hold On To, opened with the lyrics of Billy Joel's song, This is the Time. We will soon close the book with lyrics from the same song But first we would like to leave you with one thought: Although at times they do not seem to be anything special, these days in high school are days we will all look back to with mixed feelings, thoughts, and emotions. Look through this book and see what memories its pages bring back to you Hopefully, the events it records will bring a smile to your face in the years ahead. These are important days in our lives and our ideas about them will change with the passage of him a But, we will hold on to them forever.

This is the time to remember
Cause it will not last forever,
These are the days
To hold on to Cause we won't
although we'll want to
This is the time
But time is going to change,
You've given me the best of you.
